THE - Diary of a 49'er

FROM THE BOOK EDITED BY C. L. CANFIELD

Have ridden over on Brush Creek a couple of times visiting my old acquaintances. They were all busy, and it was pleasant to sit on the bank and watch them work. They are curious about the results of our river mining. It has got round that we took out a hundred thousand dollars and I did not say yes or no, as some of the partners might not want the facts given. Selby Flat is getting to be quite a place. There are at least a couple of dozen women living there. The wives of some of the wildest boys on the creek have come out to join their husbands, and it has sobered them down considerably. Jim Peters was drowned last week. He was a hard worker, but would go on a spree occasionally. He got full on the Flat at one of the saloons and started for his cabin after dark. He must have stumbled and fallen while crossing the creek for they found him face downward, dead, in less than a foot of water.

Rode over to the river yesterday. The water has gone down and there is no trace of our work left, except the brush shelters on the bank. I hear that the two companies below us did as well, if not better, than us. I have changed my ideas a good deal about this country. I thought a year ago that by this time there would not be any gold left and that the foothills and mountains would be as deserted as they were when we first came. But it isn't so. More and bigger deposits are found every day and there seems to be no end to it. If it keeps on, gold won't be worth much more than lead.*

NOVEMBER 4, 1851.—Pard got back yesterday. I did not know him when he struck the cabin. He had shaved his beard all off, except his mustache, and was dressed up in a "biled shirt"—the first I ever saw him wear—and a suit of black broadcloth, but he soon shed his good clothes and got into woolen shirt and overalls. Jack was as badly fooled as I was and started to eat

New Style

Here is a new men's fashion, launched by Lee hats at the 1948 showing of Custom Tailors and Designers association—a removable matching hat band and tie set in luxurious solid or patterned woolens. The bands are for interchangeable use on summer straws, and present a brand new effect for men's wear. The hat on the left is made of chocolate leghorn braid imported from Italy, and the hat on the right is made of a pliable, natural colored pana braid.

BOYS NABBED MINOR CRIMES EXPLAINED

GRASS VALLEY: Unexplained robberies of grocery stores and restaurants were cleared when the Grass Valley police obtained a confession from a 13 year old boy Tuesday.

His confession led to the arrest of Millis Wilson, 19, Robert Steele, 18, of the Cottage Hills district. Their story related that they had entered the Grass Valley Public Market June 2nd by jimmying open the back door and stealing a quantity of whiskey. On June 9th they entered the Green House on South Auburn Street and took several cartons of cigarettes, boxes of cigars and bottled coco cola.

Their next burglary was in a grocery located a mile or two east of Auburn where they took more cartons of cigarettes, more cigars, bottled goods, and quantity of wine and beer. Much of their loot was recovered by the police from a cache near the Idaho Maryland Mine.

The manager of the Grass Valley Public Market has signed complaints charging burglary against the youths, Steele is already serving a 30-day sentence of vagrancy in Auburn, Placer County.

Veterans' News

Veterans Administration has inaugrated a comprehensive follow-up program designed to increase the value of hospital treatment of thousands of veterans suffering from tuberculosis and to protect the health of their families and the public.

More than 13,000 veterans suffering from tuberculosis now are under the care of the VA, including 1,643 in the VA Branch 12 area, which includes California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii. A total of 80,763 veterans are receiving compensation or pensions for tuberculosis.

VA's follow-up program is designed to discover relapses among tuberculosis sufferers early so that further treatment may be instituted promptly. It further is designed to help prevent advanced disease and thus contribute toward the safeguarding of others through the control of communicable tuberculosis.

VA's responsibility for the care of tuberculous patients does not terminate when veterans are discharged from hospital treatment, officials explained. All patients require further examinations; some will need further treatment, and others will require a period of rehabilitation before they resume normal activities.

Each veteran-patient, before he is discharged from the hospital, will be fully advised what to do to assist in keeping the disease under control. Among other things, he will be urged to report at regular intervals for X-rays, fluoroscopic examinations, sputum tests, or other necessary checks or treatment.

Veterans with service-connected cases of tuberculosis can be handled, generally, in the outpatient departments of VA regional offices or hospitals without the necessity of admission to hospitals.

These service-connected cases, however, may obtain the services of qualified physicians or of recognized institutions near their homes for this follow-up care if they are authorized to do so beforehand by VA.

QUESTION: I am a World War I veteran and would like to know if I am eligible for medical care and hospitalization in a Veterans Administration hospital?

ANSWER: You are eligible for hospitalization in a VA hospital if you have service-connected disability. If your disability is non-service connected, you must state under oath that you are financially unable to pay for private treatment. Then you must wait until a bed is available in a VA hospital.

MINOR FEMALE BECOMES ADULT SAY STATUTES

NEVADA CITY: Several weeks ago William Jelenick was found guilty of selling liquor to a minor, and Mrs. Lorene Stagno, was found guilty of buying liquor. Justice of the Peace Charles A. Morehouse fined each $100. Attorney Crofford Bridges appealed to the superior court. Yesterday Judge James Snell gave his opinion. He sustained the conviction of Jelenick, but reversed the conviction of Mrs. Stagno.

In the case of Jelenick, he found that the law provides a penalty for selling liquor to a person under 21 years of age. In the case of Mrs. Stagno, the judge cited a law passed in 1854, which states that when a minor female marries, she becomes an adult. As an adult Mrs. Stagno, therefore, could buy the liquor. but Jelenick could not sell it to her, because she was under 21 years of age.

Stars Cool Fashions

Now that summer is here, the picture of the way you'll look this summer is clarified and a very pretty one it is too. For prettiness—complete femininity—is what the erstwhile New Look finally settled into. To be sure, skirts are longer, but certainly not long enough to hurt. What is significant about skirts is the fact that they make the dress, for skirts are full of tricks, while bodices remain simple to the point of demureness. Pleated skirts, in all possible varieties, are everywhere. We predict that pleats will be even more important by fall.

Firmly established in the fashion scene are pastel colors in both clothes and accessories. They are especially enchanting in fresh chambrays, the new muslins and other crisp cottons indigenous to our tropical summers. Firmly established too are multiple fashions which divide into two groups—the sundres with an over-skirt and bolero that convert it into a covered-up petticoat costume and mix-match convertibles that can be multiplied into several outfits.

Very much in favor are gold accents—as buttons belts, shoe trimming. Gold touches look particularly smart on white sportswear.

And here to stay is the colored shoe in pastels to match your ensemble—or in bright colors to contrast with it. Watch dark green shoes for fall.

Other fashion indications for fall are the dropped shoulder line . . . dropped-in-back-waist line . . . and back interest in all things from skirts to necklines, the latter often giving the effect of a dress worn backwards.

On a stifling hot day, the lettuce-crisp look and feel of a freshly laundered summer dress is one of the most delightful sensations there is. Come the dog days, this is the effect the fastidious young woman strives for, and this season, more than ever before, designers have outdone themselves in creating clothes in all price arnges that take to the tub with the greatest of ease.

This season also, washable fabrics have reached a new high in loveliness of weave, texture and coloring; designs are deft—detail, succinct. All in all, there is no reason for anyone, whatever the size of her clothes budget, to fail to achieve that starched, pinafore prettiness—that well-scrubbed, little-girl appeal—only a fresh, and fragrant wash dress can project.

ADVICE ON LAUNDERING COTTONS

High on the list of summer treats is the delicious look and feel of a cotton dress, lettuce-crisp and spanking clean. Which means exactly one thing to the girl who wears it—frequent and correct laundering. We feel that washing and ironing are fast becoming lost arts; and, because we assume that you'll be doing your own laundry, we've assembled this primer of pointers on keeping your pretty new cotton dress bright and beautiful all summer long, whether you operate in a washing machine or a wash basin. WATER TEMPERATURE varies with the color of the fabric. All-white cotton should be washed in water as hot as the hand will stand; colored fabric that's guaranteed run and fadeproof, in just comfortably warm water about the temperature of your bath; cotton that's not color-fast, in lukewarm water. SOAP, in its powder or flake form, can be mixed with hot water in the tub or basin, and then enough cool water added to reach the right temperature. Bar soap should be cut into chips and melted before adding to the wash water. In either case, enough soap should be used to make the suds in the tub or basin stand 2 or 3 inches high. WASHING, itself, consists of dipping the dress into the water, forcing the suds through the fabric many times. Especially dirty portions, may be rubbed with a soft brush. RINSING, should always be a two-time operation—first in water the same temperature as the wash water, second in cool water. After each sudsing and rinsing, wring the dress as dry as possible. BLUING is designed to make all-white garments or the white portions of a figured cotton look whiter. Flake bluing is a combination of soap and bluing which blues as it washes. Solid and liquid bluings require a separate operation after rinsing. Follow instructions which come with the product. STARCHIING resores the original smooth surface to cotton. Use a thin mixture (2 tablespoons of starch to each quart of water), boil for two minutes, cool; then dip dress into solution. Wrap the dress in a turkish towel, squeeze out all the moisture you can, and allow to dry partially before ironing. IRONING EQUIPMENT should include an ironing board (you'll get smoother results if you remove the cover, pad the board with old sheets and/or blankets and put the cover back on top of them); an iron with tapering sides, a narrow pointed end and a heat control device; and, if possible, a small sleeve board. SPRINKLING may be necessary if you've had to let the dress get completely dry before ironing.

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder if Paul Bunyan
Is in our hills today,
Sometimes I hear his big blue ox
Go lumbering on its way;
And one day when I said, "I can't,"
I will confess to you,
I heard a big voice at hand
And it said, "you can too."

Did you ever watch a ghost town come back? If you have, you know that the process makes the recrudescence of Imray seem trivial. Of course there is nothing macabre about a town that is shedding its ghostly cerements and beginning to live again, but it is truly amazing.

Some of us saw the elements of time and neglect turn the little cities of the northern mother lode into what we were pleased to call, "cities that once used to be; "Some of us grieved when old homes were darkened and flowers faded in once bright gardens; we saw the powers of decay close in while the silence and lonliness encroached relentlessly, until ghost towns became numerous.

Some of us know how many years of alternate hope and disappointment passed while the faithful ones held on buoyed up by the conviction that this beautiful section of a great state would not always remain inactive and that in due course of time a new army of pioneers would come to restore and reconstruct the little towns that were now silent and so forlorn.

The day, it seems has come. Nevada County for instance, looks with pride upon her bustling twin cities, Nevada City and Grass Valley and here on the Ridge, the thrill of new life runs from Bloomfield to French Corral and all points east and west. Coming back? Yes indeed. Even Sweetland resents being called a ghost town now. There are new homes down by her silvery stream. Some time there will be a full fledged town and Swetland will live again.

What has Paul Bunyan to do with all this? Well, Paul is the spirit of "Can Do." Whenever there is a task before which men stand helplessly and mutter "it can't be done," Paul steps up and says, "leave me take a holt of that job, it so can be done an' I'm the feller that can do it. "Oh yes, Paul is all around among us today; if you don't believe me, just look at some rather difficult job and whimper, "it can't be done. "Paul will step right up before vou and vou'll hear his booming voice saying, can't be done? it can be done leave me have at it."

There should be a new Paul Bunyan yarn coming out of the hills right now; I think I'll tell one.

It happened last winter during one of our heaviest rains. We were driving up the grade after crossing the Yuba river. Rounding a curve we found that an immense boulder had rolled from the hillside and lodged in the middle of the highway. Our way was completely blocked. There was nothing we could do. Almost instantly we found Paul Bunyan at our side, "nothing to do?" said he, "just watch me."

He pulled three wiry whiskers from his wiry beard, twisted them together and using them as a lever, pried that big rock from the road and tumbled it over the embankment and into the river far below.

You don't believe me? Huh, then just drive up the grade, stop at a point a quarter of a mile above the bridge and you can look down into the canyon and see that boulder right where it landed when Paul said, "it can so be done."

It can be done; just ignore the obstacles in our daily paths and adopting the slogan made popular by Paul Bunyan and say, "it can so be done, watch me."

Adeline Merriam Conner.

Pard up until he got a smell of him, and then the old dog went crazy. Pard tells me that he has invested eight thousand dollars more, of which three thousand dollars is for me, if I want it, and that he was offered eighteen thousand dollars clear profit on our first investment, but did not take it as he was satisfied that by next spring he could sell out for from forty to fifty thousand dollars more than we put in. If this is so, I am worth fifteen thousand dollars. We have been planning what we will do this winter, but have not come to any conclusion yet. Pard thinks we had better try the gulch above the ditch and see if the rich streak runs into the hill. It paid up as far as the ditch, but the bank is thirty feet deep and we will have to prospect it by drifting. He has fully made up his mind to go to the Bay to live next spring, and if he leaves I do not think I will stay here. Our neighbor, Platt, who lives in the cabin below us on the creek, has ben experimenting this summer with a garden. He enclosed and spaded up about a hundred feet square and planted beans, peas, corn, tomatoes, lettuce, potatoes and melons, and all but the melons turned out fine. He sent us up some string beans and tomatoes some time ago and yesterday in honor of Pard's return, he brought over a dozen ears of corn, a peck of potatoes and a lot of lettuce. We had a grand feast. It was the first mess of green vegetables we have had on the creek, although there has been some for sale in town. Platt talks about putting in an acre or more next spring, as he believes he can make a lot of money raising garden truck. We can also get a quart of fresh milk occasionally. Scott has taken up a little ranch on the head of the creek and has four cows. He charges a dollar a quart, but it is worth it. I also got a couple of pounds of fresh butter of him last week. It did not taste like the stinking strong butter brought out from the States. Grub of all kinds is getting to be pretty reasonable. The storekeepers in town are stocking up for the winter. I counted nine twelve-mule teams unloading yesterday on Main Street. These teams are a sight, for six to eight span of mules hauling three wagons. They load eight and ten tons, charge forty dollars a ton, and make the round trip from Sacramento to Nevada and return in about a week. The mules are mostly from Kentucky, and I am told that some of the outfits are valued at ten thousand dollars.

Baker was over to see us to-day and told us of a big poker game that has been running at coyoteville this week. There were four partners in one of the richest claims on the hill and they got to gambling together. They started in playing five dollars ante and passing the buck. Then they raised it to twenty-five dollars ante each, and Jack Breedlove, one of the partners, cleaned out the rest of them, winning twenty-two thousand dollars. Not satisfied with this they staked their interests in the game, valueing a fourth at ten thousand dollars, and, when the game quit, Zeke Roubier, another of the partners, won back eight thousand dollars and held to his fourth interest. The other two went broke and Breedlove ended by owning three-fourths of the claim and winning fourteen thousand dollars in gold, so that altogether he was thirty-four thousand dollars ahead. He offered his old partners work in the mine at an ounce a day, which they refused, packed their blankets and started in search of new diggings. They surely were a couple of fools and, as it was a square game, they can only blame themselves. The gamblers over in Nevada City play for high stakes, but this miners' game is said to be the biggest one that has been played anywhere around this section.

*It kept on and has added a billion or more to the world's stock of the precious metal, and, notwithstanding Jackson's fears, it is about as valuable and much harder to get than in the "Fifties."

CHICAGO—Contest Winner Jackie Brown demonstrates the advantages of the newest in clothing and equipment for the modern homemaker to Losers Gloria Hunter (center) and Betsy Harmon, exponents of older methods of ironing. NEWS FROM THE RIDGE

BY ALICE HILL

NORTH SAN JUAN: June has been a month of picnic, parties and birthdays. Last Saturday Johnny Phelan celebrated his 7th birthday in the traditional style with his school chums surprising him in the afternoon. The gifts were opened with exclamations by all. followed by quantities of cake, ice cream and punch.

Saturday evening, members of the Community Church gathered at the Hill home to honor Mrs. Lena Dahneke on her 79th birthday. She is our oldest native North San Juan resident.

Recent visitors to North San Juan have been: M. A. Bryan's sister, Mrs. George Osmeyer and her husband of Greenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Atchinson, Jr., and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Bubble have been visiting their parents at Happy Acres on Highway 49. Other visitors there have been Mrs. Mitchell, mother of Mrs. Atchinson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Liskey.

Robert Rice of Berkeley is visiting his mother, Mrs. Leda Wright.

Week-end guests of the Charles Hammans were relatives from Greeley and Redding, the Ted Hepworths and the David Wallers respectively.

Mrs. Moulton's niece, Mrs. Louis Larsen and husband of Evanston, Illinois, have been guests of the Moultons at French Corral. They were thrilled with the beauty of our country, and especially the Ridge.

(I'll let Pop write about the picnic last Sunday. It sure was a lot of fun.)

Another of those memorable gatherings for which French Corral is noted was held under the pines that rim the great hydraulic pit at the point opposite the Kate Sullivan place. The day was June 13th and a more beautiful Sunday was never chosen for a gathering of friends. A flawless sky and a carpet of wild flowers nodding in a gentle breeze, tables laden with the good things those housewives are so noted for, and the friendly welcome all received was a heartwarming experience.

Frank Stuart and wife furnished instrumental music during the feast and accompanied the group singing .

Miss Therese O'Conner. president of Columbia Parlor No. 70 of the Native Daughters of the Golden West presided, calling on long time members and those from visiting chapters for remarks. Mrs. Lillie Moulton-Fogarty of Marysville, a charter member of 56 years standing, received the plaudits of her many friends. Visitors from Grass Valley and Nevada City and more distant points were present.

Also a "slashing" between Bridgeport and Pleasant Valley indicate a spreading of the power lines which bring modern conveniences to those outside the cities.

Surveyor's stakes were seen along the highway between Sweet-land and French Corral which seems to promise improvements.

CUSTER. It was 72 years ago today that General George Armstrong Custer made his immortal and controversial last stand at the Little Big Horn River in Montana. His small company of 264 men were annhilated. Only a wounded horse survived the attack of 6000 Indians.

ENERGY. It is discriptive of Mr. A. A. Wagner, who has recently come to the county. He is putting one over on nature. Developing 25 acres into an apple orchard, of several varities, he has brought by truck and trailer some 300 year old trees from Iowa. Ordinarily a crop would not be gathered for six years. Mr. Wagner expects to be picking apples year after next. A newcomer who can step up things at that rate should be more than welcome.

SPORT. Without a doubt baseball is our national outdoor sport. Mud slinging seems to be the favorite indoor sport. Tons of mire were slung around at the Republican convention. The Democrats will do likewise when they convene to nominate a candidate for president of these United States. Then, after the inaugration the people will sit back and amuse themselves by slinging muck at the new president and at congress.

* * *

FIRSTS. Margaret Chase Smith is the first woman in staid Maine to run for congress on the Republican ticket. Mrs. Dudley Hay, of, Michigan, served as the first woman secretary to a Republican convention. Slowly, but surely, the gals are finding nice spots for themselves in the political limelight. The day of sitting behind the throne, pulling strings, is past. Give them time and they will have a bead on the White House.

CHAMELION. Archie, the turtle. stopped munching hard-boiled egg long enough to remark: "Folks born on this date are greatly influenced by the environment they live in. They absorb the influence around them. Like the chamelion, they take on the color of their surroundings. They have to learn to say NO! and say it firmly.

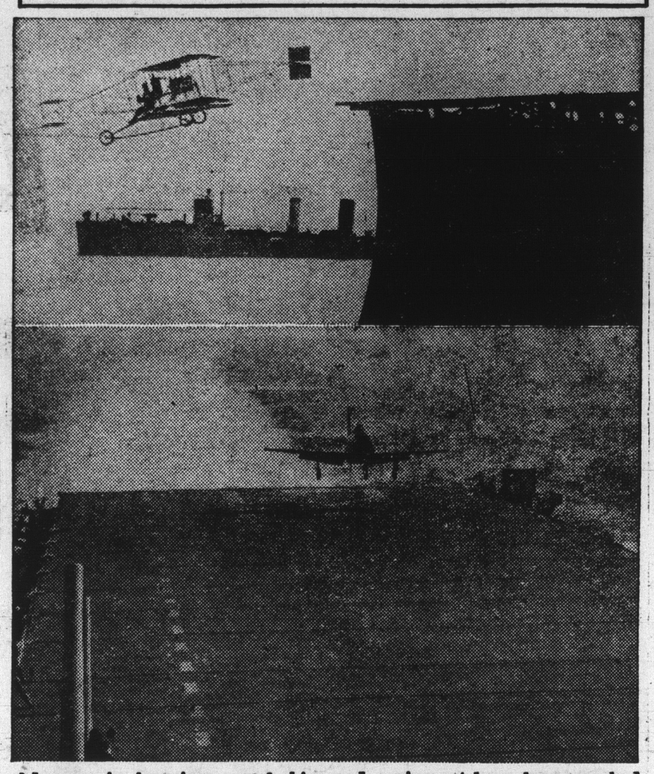
THERE HAD TO BE A FIRST TIME



Advances in American naval ships and equipment have been marked throughout the century and a half of the Navy Department's history by important milestones of progress. One of these was the first flight from the deck of a ship, made in 1910 by Lt. Eugene Ely, when he took off from a miniature flight deck on the foredeck of the USS Birmingham (upper). Three years later naval aviation had its actual start when Admiral George Dewey signed the report of the General Board, which recommnded the establishment of a Naval air arm. Today aviation is one of the elements in the three-pronged American Navy. Flowering of "Navy Air" can be symbolized in such scenes as the lower photo in which an FJ-1 "Fury," a jet-propelled Navy fighter, makes a landing aboard the USS Boxer while the ship cruises off the California coast. CHAMBER SEEKS RAILROAD FOR GRASS VALLEY

GRASS VALLEY: The Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee consisting of Gilbert Cramer, Louis Hartman, and John J. Looser, and has invited Paul Bergeman, president of the Nevada City Chamber to accompany them, to meet with officers of the Southern Pacific Company and discuss with them a project for building a branch line into Grass Valley from Colfax, Placer County.

President Hartman approved the appeal of Loyle Freeman, manager of the county fair, for support of the chamber, in bringing about the building of a National Guard Armory in Watt Park.

The four-man committee delegated to interview the Southern Pacific officials was instructed to meet with directors of the American Trust Company currently reported to be interested in establishing a branch office in Grass Valley.

COUNCIL SURVEY WATER SYSTEM

GRASS VALLEY: The Grass Valley City Council has approved a survey of the city's water distribution system and a plan for a master distribution system.

The applications, data and contracts were submitted by Carlos McGuire, city engineer and, William Cassettari, city attorney. Details of the project will be submitted to the Post-War Works Projects Board. The plan provides for the transfer of state and federal money provided the city for certain improvements. While the sewage disposal plant has top priority, it is the desire of the council to have part of the fund transferred to the water survey.

William C. George, in charge of the city's recreation program, announced that 122 youngsters have signed for summer sports in parks and on school grounds.

CENTENNIAL CARAVAN TO HAVE HISTORY TREASURE

SAN FRANCISCO: Rare historical relics and documents, of almost inestimable value, are now being assembled for the "Centennial Caravan" which will travel to every section of California during the State's three-year Centennials observance.

Assembling of the historical treasures is under the direction of Carroll Hall, curator of Sutter's Fort Historical Museum, and Dr. Aubrey Neasham, Regional Historian of the National Park Service, and consultant to the California State Park Commission.

Rare lithographs, newspapers of a hundred years ago, priceless documents, objects symbolical of the early days in California history—all will be displayed within the two specially-constructed steel buses, which will form the commemorative caravan. Both buses will be equiped with the latest scientific safeguards against fire, theft, collision and other losses.

The impressive exhibits being gathered from the State's leading archives, museums and private collections will present a panorama of California history. From the age of exploration, beginning with the landing on California shores of Cabrillo in 1542, through the periods of Spanish and Russian colonization and the Mexican occupation; and the arrival of American colonists from the East, to the raising of the American Flag in Monterey in 1846—each will be represented by historical momentos.

As typifying the Golden Era, sections of the exhibits will display significant memorials of the discovery of gold, the Gold Rush, the now almost-extinct boom towns and the mining methods of the early days.

Illustrative of the ever-broadening scope of California's development will be documents related to the admission of California as a State, graphic displays of the early modes of transportation; and objects and papers descriptive of the growth of agriculture and industry within the State.

Planned and produced by the California Centennials Commission, this mobile museum of State treasures will give Californians, by the hundreds of thousands, an opportunity to see at first hand histroical papers and objects recording early State history.

FOOD... through the ages..

THE GREEKS PRODUCED MOST OF OUR ROOT VEGETABLES, WHICH THEY DRIED AND PRESERVED FOR WINTER, AND ALSO OLIVE OIL AND HONEY.
EARLY GREEKS WERE NOTABLY FRUGAL EATERS. FISH WAS ONE OF THEIR GREAT STAPLES. THEY EVEN MADE A BREAD FROM DRIED FISH.
BUT MOST GREEK BREAD WAS MADE FROM WHEAT OR CHESTNUTS. THE POOR LIVED PRINCIPALLY ON A BLACK BROTH, CONTAINING NUTS.
SOPHOCLES, FAMOUS GREEK POET (450 B.C.), STRESSED MODERATION. HIS RECOMMENDED DIET WAS: "BREAD, MEAT, GREEN VEGETABLES AND ZYTHOS" (BEER).
LATER GREECE, HOWEVER, WAS FAMOUS FOR LAVISH FEASTS, ALTHOUGH PERICLES AND ASPASIA, ATHENIAN RULERS IN 443 B.C. ATE AS SPARINGLY AS EARLY GREEKS.

A STATEMENT FROM MOUNTAIN CHEVROLET CO.

Regarding Our "Labor Dispute"

WE REFER TO THIS AS A "LABOR DISPUTE" BECAUSE THAT IS THE TERM USED BY THE MECHANICS LOCAL 1003. AS FAR AS WE ARE CONCERNED, WITHIN OUR OWN ORGANIZATION WE HAVE NO DISPUTE WITH LABOR. THIS IS EVIDENCED BY THE FACT THAT UNION PICKETING HAS CAUSED THE RESIGNATION OF ONLY ONE MECHANIC. THIS LEAVES FOUR MECHANICS, ONE LUBRICATION MAN, ONE NIGHT ATTENDANT, SERVICE MANAGER, PARTS MANAGER, AS WELL AS OFFICE AND SALES FORCES SATISFIED WITH THEIR WORKING CONDITIONS AT MOUNTAIN CHEVROLET TO THE POINT OF CROSSING A PICKET LINE. IN SPITE OF THE UNION'S STATEMENT THAT THIS PROTEST IS DIRECTED AGAINST ALL DEALERS IN NEVADA COUNTY, THERE HAS BEEN BUT ONE OF ALL THE MACHINISTS TAKEN THE STATEMENT SERIOUSLY ENOUGH TO RESIGN HIS POSITION IN SYMPATHY WITH THE UNION.

MOUNTAIN CHEVROLET COMPANY AS WELL AS ALL OTHER MEMBERS OF THE AUTOMOBILE DEALERS ASSOCIATION OF NEVADA COUNTY ARE AT PRESENT PROVIDING THE MAXIMUM SALARIES AND WORKING CONDITIONS OUR CURRENT CUSTOMER CHARGES WILL ALLOW. AND, AS YOU ARE AWARE, YOU, THE CUSTOMER, WOULD HAVE TO PAY ANY INCREASE OVER PRESENT HOURLY RATE. WE, THE DEALERS, FEEL IT IS HIGH ENOUGH NOW.

WE FEEL IT IS UNFAIR FOR A UNION TO PICKET ANY ONE DEALER'S PLACE OF BUSINESS TO PROTEST AN ACTION DIRECTED AGAINST ALL DEALERS.

THIS STATEMENT BEARS THE APPROVAL OF THE NEVADA COUNTY AUTOMOBILE DEALERS ASSOCIATION.

OKLAHOMA SOON IN SACRAMENTO

SACRAMENTO: When the Theatre-Guild's national company of Oklahoma comes to Sacramento July 12 to 17, it will be playing on its first night, the 2,2092nd performance of the famous musical

This is a record that IS a record, and just one of the nearly 100 records held by this company and the one at the St. James Theatre, New York, which just closed two weeks ago. No other travelling stage attraction of any kind ever before in any country has been played for anywhere nearly that many performances without a break.

The national company of "Oklahoma", has toured and played, without vacation or other layoff, ever since its opening in New Haven, Conn. on October 14, 1943, around the calendar solidly for more than four and one-half years from one end of the country and back again. And it is booked for continuous playing throughout the approaching summer and on until June 20, 1950, nearly seven years in all—which will leave all rivals so far behind that they cannot be seen for Oklahoma dust.

Reservations for the Sacramento run, six evening performances and Wednesday and Saturday matinees, are being made now at the Ware-Hazelton box office, by mail. Orders for tickets must be accompanied by a check and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NORTH SAN JUAN CHERRY CARNIVAL DRAWS THRONG; PAT KESSLER QUEEN

NORTH SAN JUAN: Pat Kessler was crowned queen of North San Juan's Cherry Carnival Saturday evening and Sunday rode triumphant in the parade attended by the six princesses who gave her sharp competition for the throne.

The parade was the most representative that North San Juan has had in many a year. The Gold Trail Riders in their uniforms gave the event a wild western flavor. Floats and decorated vehicles were a notable success. Cherries were abundant and handed out to all comers in profusion.

People from far and wide, from Downieville, Sierra County, on the north, to Grass Valley and Nevada City turned out in hundreds to attend the three big dances, Friday, Saturday and Sunday night and to see Sunday's parade.

The North San Juan Chamber of Commerce, which covers most of Highway 49, including Camptonville, Yuba County, and the Ridge towns of French Corral and Sweetland, put a fine feather in its cap by carrying out one of the most successful festivals of the year.
